lade was opened on them, and they could have hardly escaped being hit, but they were not concerned. Not less than twenty shots were fired at the provokers, each farmer taking a hand as the thieves ran through his place.

O. T. Riewerts discovered the thieves by a bullet in the back of his head, where they escaped. The farmers say the thieves had organized a gang of a dozen men. They have operated at Corona for weeks and stolen chickens by the wholesale. The county officers have been called upon to aid in search of the thieves.

HELD UP AS A MODEL FOR SAN FRANCISCO TO FOLLOW.

Chairman Shafter Takes Occasion to Inform the Mechanics of the Bay City of the Entertaining Methods That Have Built Up Southern California.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M. SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Chairman Shafter, president of the California Promotion Committee of San Francisco, a number of representatives met today for the purpose of outlining plans for the development of the resources of the State and inducing tourists and immigrants to come.

Chairman Shafter, in calling the meeting to order, drew attention to the great success which the energetic citizens of Los Angeles were encountering in developing their section of the State. He said the efforts of the merchants of this city should be toward exploiting the resources of Central and Northern California. To illustrate the vigor with which the residents of the southern part of the State are working for the interest of their section, he read a telegram from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce showing that within the last ten years the city of the southern metropolis had expended $235,000 in advertising, exhibitions and fairs.

SEEKING SAN JOAQUIN. BAND OF EXCURSIONISTS. (BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) STOCKTON, April 9.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The first low-rate excursion from Los Angeles came up through San Joaquin Valley today, bringing fifty-two people who will spend ten days looking over the central portion of the State, with a view of locating. Through the efforts of the San Joaquin Valley Commercial Association one-and-a-fourth rate was secured for the round trip from both railroads, with the privilege of coming by one road and returning by the other.

It is expected these excursions will prove popular, and the managers of the several exhibits from valley counties in Los Angeles are kept busy answering questions and arranging for future trips, as one will be sent north each week for three weeks. Eastern people are anxious to see this part of the State, and it is expected they will come north in large numbers. The tickets permit of stop-over privileges and excursionists will be allowed to make side trips to any section.

Healy, a young Harvard student, and son of a prominent Cincinnati attorney, who disappeared in a mysterious fashion seven years ago, returned here from the Orient a few days ago, and is now with his mother and sister at Coronado, Cal.

Young Healy was sent to Harvard to study for the law, but preferred travel to study, and set out to see the world. Nothing was heard from him until a few days ago, when he landed here, returning to this country from the Orient, having worked his passage on a government transport. He appealed to Paymaster Staunton of the United States naval pay office, and that gentleman communicated with the young man's mother, with the result that young Healy was sent to Coronado to join his mother and sister at their country place.

When this is completed the water will be taken in an iron pipe thirty inches in diameter down to Butte Creek. The distance is about a mile and a half and the pipe is 1400 feet. The pipe to stand the strain of water for that descent will be made strong and heavy.

Insurgents Asked for Expulsion of Friars and Chinese, Freedom of Worship, a Public School System and Liberty of the Press.

Manila, April 9.—(By Manila Cable.) Gen. Jacob H. Smith, commanding the American forces in Samar, gives an interesting description of his conference on the Cananara, in Samar, with the insurgent leader Guevarra, who is to surrender to the American authorities, April 15.

Gen. Smith and his party of twelve officers left their arms five miles below the place where the conference was held. Knowing the insurgents were short of food, the Americans carried presents of potatoes and hardtack with them. Great preparations had been made to receive Gen. Smith and his party. A dock in the river had been especially built, and two triumphal arches were erected for the occasion.

Two hundred insurgent troops presented arms when the American officers landed. Gen. Guevarra and fourteen officers received them. Upon arriving at the house where the conference occurred, Guevarra informed Gen. Smith that the insurgents were anxious to surrender on the following six conditions:

First—That the friars be expelled from the Philippine Islands; second, freedom of worship; third, the expulsion of all Chinese merchants; fourth, the establishment of a school system; fifth, liberty of the press; and sixth, the release of all prisoners of war.

Gen. Smith informed Guevarra that once peace was assured the prisoners of war would undoubtedly be released. He said that school systems were already in operation in the pacified districts of the archipelago, and that this system would be extended to Samar Island. He explained that the entrance of Chinese to the Philippines was prohibited by law, and that it would be unfair to expel those now engaged in business under the flag. He said that all persons in the archipelago were entitled to worship as they pleased, and that the press was now free.

When they accepted peace, he explained, they would have civil government, and a greater degree of liberty. Guevarra and his party accepted the explanations and promised to surrender April 15. He then escorted the American officers to a banquet, which was served with cloth napkins and other adjuncts of civilization.

Gen. Smith gave Guevarra permission to purchase rice for the use of the insurgent troops.

Vein of Ore Found on His Land Which is Said Assays Two Thousand Dollars a Ton.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Col. William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," believes he will be a millionaire within the year. Gold in surpassing richness has been found on his lands in Wyoming, in the Big Horn Valley.

Great things are being told about the find. A four-foot vein has been unearthed there, which yields 1200 to the ton and a mine adjoining the property has just been sold for $2,500,000.

Col. Cody, the Hoffman House today admitted the facts were as stated. "I've received good news," said the colonel, "from out there regarding the value of the mine. I'm waiting for further particulars, though, and I hope to have them in a few days."

While Col. Cody was acting as guide for Prof. O. C. Marsh, years ago, he learned many things from the colonel. Col. Cody has said that the professor told him the Big Horn Basin was formed by the passage of a salt lake through the country through Big Horn Cañon, and that in the latter would be found the finest soil in the world, containing in all probability sea gold, because the lake had been salt water.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

John a "Goner."

The Federal deportation mill turned out another poor Chinaman yesterday, branded with the word "labors" Commissioner Van Dyke ordered Wong Chew back to China.

Seeking a Location.

It is reported that the Lowe Gas Company is seeking to obtain a location for its gas plant on the lands of the Glassell estate in the Arroyo Seco, lying in the country between Garvanza and Lincoln Park. This, it is claimed, would give the company advantages in operating both in Los Angeles and Pasadena.

Stir at Hotel Potter.

The two overdue lumber schooners, whose non-arrival caused the suspension of work on Hotel Potter at Santa Barbara, have reached their destination, and the army of workmen yesterday ordered back to resume the building of the big hotel. Work on the power-houses will also be begun immediately.

Made Sausage of Fingers.

A. A. Temby, whose home is at No. 635 West Fifteenth street, was severely injured last night when he was caught in the machinery of the Cudahy Packing Company's plant at Aliso street and the river. He was working at a sausage machine, when he caught his hand in the rapidly-moving knives and so lacerated three fingers that they may yet have to be amputated.

Postal Consolidation.

Postoffice Station H, at Union avenue and Hoover street, will be consolidated July 1 with Station D, now at No. 1300 Washington street. The new location will be at No. 1317, just across the street. Both of these have been contract stations, which are considered unsatisfactory by the postoffice officials, and the new Station D will be put on the regular list, with a clerk from the main office in charge.

Would Tell Nothing.

Sam Elbece was taken to the Receiving Hospital at 4 o'clock yesterday morning suffering from long knife wounds and covered with blood. His cheek had been laid open, and he had several wounds about the head and arms. He admitted that he had been cut during a fight, but would not say who had cut him or where the fight had taken place. He declared that his assailant was more in need of a doctor than he was.

Fell from a Car.

Charles Von der Kullen, who was a candidate for the City Council in the Seventh Ward at the last municipal election, was painfully injured last night at Fourth and Broadway streets. He was slung from a car, and did not wait for it to come to a stop. His foot slipped and he was thrown violently to the pavement on his face. A long gash was cut in his chin, in which several stitches were taken at the Receiving Hospital, and his nose was so badly bruised that it became swollen to twice its natural size.

Troop D May Move.

Gen. George Stone, Adjutant-General of the State, has given Troop D of this city permission to move from its present quarters in the Armory building as soon as other suitable quarters can be found. M. H. Fink, of the Postoffice Department, who has been in San Francisco on business, stated yesterday that he had seen Gen. Stone, and had received his consent to the move. All that remains now is to find other quarters. The postoffice has been in the room now occupied by Troop D as soon as the move is made.

BREVITIES.

"Pasadena, California, City Beautiful" is the title of a handsome souvenir of the Crown of the Valley, issued by the Evening Star of that city. The book contains a large number of views of the handsome residences, business blocks, public buildings and beauty spots of the city and its environs, and is printed on paper of fine quality. It is a well-bound volume, and the cover is embellished with a cluster of golden poppies.

TWO SHOTS AT A BURGLAR.

Thief Discovered in Foy's Harness Store on North Los Angeles Street, but Escapes by Running.

Special Officer Ford of the Elms Detective Agency, who watches the business houses in the wholesale district, found the door of Foy's harness store, No. 315 North Los Angeles street, and one of the panes of glass broken, at 7:30 o'clock last night. The door had been locked, but by breaking the glass the thief drew the bolts and pushed open both doors. "For entering the store he again closed the doors and when Ford reached the place the thief was still inside. The officer entered with his gun in his hand, but as he was too dark to see any distance he stepped behind the door and turned on the electric light. As he did so the thief, who had concealed himself behind a large saddle, bolted for the door, and by the time Ford reached the sidewalk he was half way across the street. Ford yelled to persons on the other side of the street to stop the thief, but they did not attempt to do so. Then Ford opened fire on the fleeing man, but failed to hit him. The shot only made the man run faster, and he himself took up the cry "Stop thief."

On the floor near where the thief had hidden was found a complete set of his harness, which he had taken down from the racks, and in the gutter in front was found a large valise, in which he probably intended to carry off his booty.

At 10 o'clock last night Fred Williams was arrested near the Plaza by Detectives Talamantes and Shields, and today will be formally charged with the burglary. The officers had been watching him procure another valise, in which was a bar of iron like that in the valise found in front of the store. They found a bullet hole through his coat, within an inch of his body, evidently where one of Officer Ford's shots had passed through.

The officers have a witness who saw the man break the window in the Foy harness store and enter. Ford could not positively identify the prisoner, but stated that the man he shot at was of the same height and build and wore the same attire. The prisoner is a hobo, and says he arrived Tuesday afternoon. He denies his guilt. The name he gave is believed to be assumed.

TWO MEN BADLY BURNED.

Fuel Oil Flashed in Their Faces Burning Off Most of Their Hair and Blistering the Skin.

W. H. Jones, who resides at No. 626 Stephenson avenue and works at the Union Oil Tool Company's plant on Palmette street, was attempting to light the burner of an oil furnace yesterday. He allowed too much oil to drip out and when he applied the match the gas from the oil ignited and flaming out, caught him directly in the face. All of the skin on his face was blistered, his mustache, eyebrows and hair burned off, but he closed his eyes in time to prevent the flame from injuring them.

Two hours later James Schneider received almost identically the same injuries in the engine-room in the basement of the Keston Hotel. He is the engineer at the hotel and was blowing out the pipes which convey the oil from the tank to the furnace. In the hot pipes the oil became transformed into gas, and as soon as flame was applied this gas ignited, the flame flashing out into the engine's face. He was hurled to the Receiving Hospital, where his burns were dressed, after which he was removed to his home, to which he will be confined for several days.

TWO WOMEN ASSAULTED.

Bold Attempt at Highway Robbery on East Washington Street—Victim's Screams Put Robber to Flight.

A well-dressed man last night made a determined effort to hold up and rob Mrs. Julia Anderson and Mrs. Boram, who live at Sixteenth and Essex streets, near East Washington and San Pedro streets. The women were en route to their homes, and were walking slowly, when a man rode up to the curb on a bicycle and stopped ahead of them. As they passed he suddenly faced them and presented a revolver at the same time warning them to keep quiet. They tried to resist, but he paid no attention to his injunction, but screamed. He made a threatening motion with his gun and demanded their money, but this only made them scream the louder. Their cries attracted several men, and the would-be robber ran to his wheel and rode rapidly away. The women were cared for in one of the residences and later escorted home. They gave an excellent description of their assailant.

PUSHING ON TO SALT LAKE.

Last Girder of Steel Bridge in Today.

Railroad Officials Will See it Swung.

Complete Equipment for Three New Salt Lake Trains Due Next Week.

Construction work at this end of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad is progressing quickly and steadily, and if no unforeseen obstacles arise, it will not be long before a regular train service between Los Angeles and Pomona will be commenced. An official of the company stated yesterday that there will arrive in Los Angeles within the next week the complete equipment for three passenger trains, which will equal, if not surpass, in elegance any rolling stock now in use on any railroad in California. These cars will be put on the Pomona run as soon as the track is completed to that city.

The first six miles of track from Hobart Junction east to Rio Hondo was laid some time ago. Here a halt had to be made on account of a steel bridge which has to be completed before track laying beyond the river can proceed. The girders for the last span of bridge will be swung into place today.

WILL SEE IT DONE. Vice-Presidents J. Ross Clark and T. E. Gibson, Chief Engineer Hawgood and other officials of the road will go out to Rio Hondo this morning to witness the swinging of the big girders. The big pieces of steel weigh many tons and the handling of them requires some engineering skill. To meet the requirements a construction train has been equipped with the necessary cranes and other appliances of a labor-saving nature. The girders for the first span of the bridge were successfully placed last week, and if no accident occurs in the placing of the remaining ones, the construction train will be able to cross the bridge a few days hence, when track laying will be resumed.

Several gangs of men are engaged in laying the concrete foundations for the bridges beyond the Rio Hondo. The largest bridge crossing the river, between Los Angeles and Pomona, will be the one across the San Gabriel River. A few miles of track will bring the construction train from the Rio Hondo bridge to the big San Gabriel bridge. Here another halt will have to be made while the work for this bridge is being put in place. This will be the last of the building of the Rio Hondo bridge, as the spans of the former will be 130 feet, while those of the latter are only 100 feet long.

Delay in getting steel delivered from the factories has somewhat retarded the bridge work, but enough steel is now on hand to complete the bridges on the line between Los Angeles and Pomona. Nothing but steel and concrete are used in the framework and foundations of the bridges and culverts. There will be no wooden structures to burn down or rot away. This is but one example of the thoroughness of the road which is being built. It is a good indication of its intended permanency.

The grading between Los Angeles and Ontario is practically completed, and only the bridge work and laying of the track remain to be done. In order to place that portion of the Salt Lake road in operation for local traffic. Beyond Ontario three lines have been surveyed to the foot of Cajon Pass. Chief Engineer Hawgood said yesterday that the route for the section of the road had not yet been chosen, as there still remained some technical difficulties to overcome. A selection would not be made until it was ascertained which of the three routes would prove most advantageous and present the least right-of-way obstacles.

THROUGH THE PASS. Through the Cajon Pass the survey of the Salt Lake road is fixed. It follows the Santa Fe track closely through the pass, and in the neighborhood of Heerling swings off to the west of the Santa Fe to a point in the Mojave Desert in the direction of Kramer, which is the junction of the Randersburg Railroad with the Atlantic and Pacific.

through Meadow Valley Wash, from Calientes to Las Vegas. The latter town consists of one ranch house, and the town of Calientes is not much bigger. Mr. Hawgood said yesterday that there has been no let-up in surveys or construction work since operations were begun some months ago, and so far as he knew, there was no prospect of a let-up or hindrance of the work until the road is completed clear through to Salt Lake.

Vice-President and Attorney Gibson said: "While it may appear to persons not familiar with the progress of our road that there has been a lull in operations, such apparent lull may be likened to the calm before the storm. Our forces have not been idle, but I may say that we are just getting ready for a general attack all along the line. As soon as the surveys are completed and right of way secured, construction will be pushed with all possible haste. Track-laying between this city and Pomona is progressing as fast as the bridge work can be done, and the rails and ties are being laid as fast as stock continues to arrive, and as soon as the first section of the line is ready for operation, it will be equipped with the finest train service in Southern California."

FOR NEW ENGLANDERS. The Massachusetts Old Home Week, established by act of the Great and General Court, and which will be observed on Sunday, July 27, is naturally exciting a lively interest among the 1891 natives of Massachusetts residing in Los Angeles, and the 1918 living in the State at large. The attendance of many of these sons and daughters, as well as a still larger number of descendants of the Old Bay State, is assured, and the towns down there are appointing committees and arranging programmes for the reception of the visitors, who will make the occasion a pleasant incident of their summer vacations.

RAYMOND BALL, an infant, was brought before Justice Morgan yesterday to testify against a Florence saloon-keeper charged with selling liquor to minors. Raymond, a lusty little chap, He came with his mother to court, and didn't cry a bit on the witness stand. Raymond is six feet tall and weighs 150 pounds. His merry little crow sounds like the bellow of a bull. He is one of the healthiest children who ever appeared to the courts for protection. The jury decided, however, that although Raymond may be an infant in the eyes of the law, he is big enough to know whiskey from ink, and acquitted the saloon-keeper. The case was the culmination of a zealous campaign started by the late Mrs. Murphy Reform League of Florence. They were trying to execute a flank movement on James Cosgrove, who keeps a saloon. Raymond was imported from his home in East Los Angeles for the purpose. In spite of his gigantic size, he was only 18 years old yesterday, and so under the age at the time Cosgrove sold him liquor on the 19th of March.

STANDS FIRM UNTO DEATH.

Barkeeper's Hard Battle Against Rum.

Signs the Pledge and Dies for It.

Pathetic Ending of Career of L. D. Fabric, Man of Good Family.

Readers of The Times will recall a story told in connection with the Francis Murphy meetings at Bethlehem Institutional Church, the last week in March about a bartender, who led a delegation of drinking men into the meeting and all signed the pledge. The leader's name was Lewis D. Fabric, and that night he stood on the platform, while Murphy held his hand, and said: "I signed it; I'm glad I did it, and I intend to keep it." On Tuesday afternoon he died at the County Hospital, after ten days of great suffering.

On Saturday and Sunday after he signed the pledge he remained at the home of Dana W. Bartlett, manager of the Bethlehem Institutions, where he had every attention from Mr. Bartlett and his family, who were determined to save him from dying a drunkard. They knew his history, but it was a secret safely locked in their bosoms. He was the son of a prosperous physician in North Dakota, with whom his wife, now his widow, has been living, because she could not live with her drunken husband, who for eight years had been a saloon bartender. He leaves a sister, the wife of a banker, Charles Ridenbaugh of Cedar Falls, Iowa.

On Monday, following the signing of the pledge, he became crazy with delirium tremens, and strapped in a wagon, was taken to the County Hospital. His condition had then better and worse by spells since then, and he was frequently visited by members of the Bartlett family. He steadily declined to take any liquor, saying he was determined to fight it out, if he died. He remained

THE THIRSTY "INFANT."

Raymond made a profound impression on the court yesterday. When the complaint was read charging Cosgrove with having sold liquor to an infant, the jury expected to see a tottering child brought out. Instead, this giant with a face that was blue from recent chafing walked to the stand. Cosgrove's lawyer, Jud Rush, gasped. "Are you the infant?" he said in a faint whisper. "Yes, sir," said Raymond meekly. "Eighteen today." (And they put on Raymond's mother to prove it.) Mr. Rush looked at him with the in-at the after-meeting at Bethlehem the night he signed the pledge, and stood before the audience and prayed that God would help him keep it, and declared his intention of becoming a Christian. On Monday last word came that he would probably die. He asked for Rev. John Smith, a preacher in the Bethlehem neighborhood, and the latter went to him. He asked Rev. Smith if he thought he would die, and when answered in the affirmative, he asked: "Did you ever know a man to be saved who was as mean as I am?" The history of Jerry McAuley and other men who had reformed before they died was recounted to him, and then he said: "Well, I had hoped to live and be of some good about Bethlehem Church, but you tell the boys that I am satisfied and am ready to die." A few days ago he was visited by Mrs. Bradley, the Bethlehem deaconess. She asked him, in view of his terrible sufferings, he was sorry he had signed the pledge. "I am not," was his reply. "I would do it over again."

Arrangements were in progress to send his body to Bethlehem Church but yesterday a telegram was received from his father, asking that the body be sent home, and it was shipped last night.

NEAREST THING IN THE SPOOK BUSINESS. WHAT BECAME OF THE "DEMA-TERIALIZED" DISHES. Sharp Game Played on a Confiding Boston Tourist in Los Angeles—White Silk Dress Sent to Realm of Spirits.

Whenever a spook-teaser finds another graft he always proceeds to give the whole snap away. One of the ilk, who has recently abandoned his direct wire from a Spring-street lodging-house into Spookdom, has told a story of a trick played on a tourist last week. She was a dear old lady out here for the winter from Boston. She began attending seances and some of the spook sharps fell upon her with avidity. It seems that she had a very valuable set of dishes in Boston and she wanted it out here. She was afraid to trust anybody to pack the pieces. They belonged to her great-grand-something or other, and she would rather have had her head cracked than had one of them as much as nicked. In the innocence of her heart she went to bearing the Ladies' Auxiliary of this city and asked if it would be possible for him to dematerialize the dishes in Boston and bring them out here by means of the spirits; then materialize them again in Los Angeles. Oh, yes—That was a cinch. He could do that with one hand tied behind him.

He sent word to Boston for a brother spook sharp to assist him, and the lady wrote back trustingly and had the precious dishes turned over to the Boston man. The report was that they stood the materializing operation with smiling cheerfulness. The waiter a long time in patience for them to materialize out here, but there was a screw loose somewhere. The spook sharp apologized and apologized, and at last found out just what the matter was. He told her that while the dishes were skating through the spirit world, the spirits had become so much enamored of them that they refused to allow them to come to earthly existence again. This distressed her very much for a while until the spook sharp got word by his spook telephone line that when he died and went to heaven the dishes would be there waiting for her. She went away much comforted.

Another spook sharp fooled an old man. He told him that he had a beautiful young woman for a spiritual guide, who had died and was waiting for him. Pretty soon word came that the guide was very shy as to clothes and was in need of a wardrobe. The old man being anxious to see her, promptly went out and bought her a white silk dress, and the spook sharp delivered by the lady medium into the realm of Spookdom without delay—maybe.

MASONIC FAIR. Work to Begin Saturday on First Booth for Coming Festival—Transformation of Hazard's Pavilion. Work on the first booth for the Masonic Fair will begin Saturday morning next, when a corps of carpenters and decorators will invade Hazard's Pavilion and transform its dingy interior into a mass of bright parades, kiosks, booths and attractive stores of various sorts. It is proposed to assign the space for the remaining twenty-eight booths Saturday.

The Mystic Shrine proposes to have the most striking exhibit at the fair. It will be an octagon-shaped booth, with sides of cut-glass set in black velvet, and the interior will be lighted with myriads of colored electric lamps. The Shrine will spare no money in attaining their end, but the commandery is said to be working quietly to make a display even more attractive. Six vice-presidents, to serve as aides to President Hughes, were appointed last night. They are: S. Levi, E. T. Blackmer and S. W. Hackett of San Diego, and Stanley J. Astorian, R. Ocheltree and J. J. Jarvis of Riverside. The members of fifteen committees to have charge of booths have been appointed, but the committees are not complete. The heads of committees are: Mrs. Charles Gaasagne, French Lodge; Mrs. Mollie H. Flint, East Gate Lodge; Miss R. S. Radley, Manchester Lodge; Mrs. C. J. Nettie Howard, Acacia Chapter; Mrs. C. J. Williams, Pansy Chapter; Mrs. H. M. Sale, Southern California Lodge; Mrs. Grace M. Silvers, Esperanza Chapter; Mrs. Martha A. Scriber, Angeles Chapter; Mrs. George Hart, South Gate Chapter; Mrs. F. C. Wolfe, South Gate Chapter; Mrs. S. J. Radley, country store; Mrs. Mollie Wood, commandery; Mrs. C. B. Fowler, Mystic Shrine; Mrs. V. G. Campbell, candy booth; Mrs. E. H. Augustus, Hollenbeck Lodge; Mrs. Musau, Pentalpha Lodge.

APPOMATTOX ANNIVERSARY.

Marked by Veterans at Soldiers' Home.

Fitting Observance of Lee's Surrender.

Bright Day of Joyousness in Lives of Defenders of the Nation.

The thirty-seventh anniversary of Lee's surrender of the Confederate Army—Appomattox Day—was celebrated yesterday at the Soldiers' Home in a manner so seldom has been known to the two thousand veterans who are spending their days in peace at that retreat. Hundreds of members of the Grand Army, the Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans, other auxiliaries of the old soldiers organizations, and a large number of visitors joined with the hosts, the Union Veterans Legion, in making the occasion memorable. It is said the historical day never was observed more fittingly.

Appomattox Day is observed especially by the Union Veterans Legion, and Encampment No. 135 at the Pacific branch, N.E. 10, V.V.A., sponsors neither expense nor pains to make each recurring anniversary just a little more noteworthy than the last. Yesterday was no exception to the rule. Every old soldier who was able to be out took an active interest in the day's proceedings, and the wan faces of many who are in the hospital, waiting for "taps" lighted up as they heard or saw the crowds that had gathered to celebrate the event that marked the close of four years' bloody strife in which they had participated.

The spacious grounds at the home were groomed for the occasion, and from every building the Stars and Stripes floated in the breeze, and some of the company buildings were decorated in the national colors. When the Southern Pacific train arrived at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, bearing the Ladies' Auxiliary of Encampment No. 135, U.V.L., Mrs. Annie Schaefer, president, and H. W. Lawton Camp No. 10, Sons of Veterans, of Long Beach, under Lieut. A. Schallerberger, members of the encampment, headed by the Southern Home Band extended the regular military reception and escorted the guests to Assembly Hall, where a brief general reception was held.

At 11 o'clock and for nearly three hours the well-known ration of beans, hardtack and coffee being the principal comestibles. So great was the crowd that they could not all be served at the same time, notwithstanding the preparations had been made for their accommodation.

Memorial Hall, the scene of the afternoon's exercises, was the most that drew the old soldiers and guests together in one compact mass, and long before the hour for opening the great auditorium and galleries were filled to the walls, making it necessary to throw open the side doors to permit those outside to enjoy at least a part of the programme. More than one thousand of the gray-haired veterans, ladies and other visitors occupied seats in the auditorium, and the galleries were filled with colors occupied conspicuous places on the stage and the proceedings were boxed were draped with the Stars and Stripes.

After an overture by Prof. Elser and the home band, S. A. Foster, adjutant of Encampment No. 135, read the general order of the day, and in a few words introduced Byron Oliver, Esq., of this city, as the orator, referring to him as "one who may be the future representative in Congress from this district." Mr. Oliver was greeted with applause. He said, in part: "I cannot describe the feelings that surge over me as I stand before these venerable heroes, and think of the debt of gratitude which my country and all of you owe to them, and when we shall cease to remember and reward their acts, may Providence cease to prosper our land. Oh, my country, as you cherish the deeds and revere the valor of these men, you incarnate the spirit of patriotism in their sons, but if you ever forget or become careless of their declining years, beware, for the disease is tearing at your loins which destroyed both Greece and Rome. Be wise, be brave, be just, be the nation's honored guests, waiting, listening for the final reveille when you shall be summoned to meet the band of comrades who have gone before, how sweet it must be to feel that this country of ours, with all its splendid achievements, with its strength and purity and possibilities for good, this great republic which stands for human rights and civil liberty, this great commonwealth upon which the eternal sun never sets, which has not in all its domain a bondman nor a slave; which has not in all its territory a single person, black or white, rich or poor, friend or stranger, but what has equal rights before the law, was made great and strong and pure by the willing sacrifices you laid upon the altar of freedom."

The old boys in blue seemed especially to appreciate the dancing of two little girls in the same color, the Bach sisters of Los Angeles, who tripped through graceful evolutions until they were exhausted, and who would have been dancing yet if the veterans could have had their way. Two other little girls, the Carlson sisters, were applauded for their able efforts in singing and dancing roles. Among other features of the programme that lightened the hearts of the old soldiers were songs by Miss Grace Norton and Miss Goldie Ross, and a recitation, "Maid of Gettysburg," by Miss Evaline Grobe, daughter of the home.
